

Turning a Lifetime of Cycling into Impact

Scott Erickson has been an avid cyclist his whole life — well before cycling shoes, jerseys or padded shorts became the norm. After his Parkinson's diagnosis in 2018, the Tour de Fox Wine Country ride felt like a natural way to channel that passion into purpose. He joined his first ride in 2019, and since then, Scott and his wife, Perrie, have become pillars of the Tour de Fox community. Even when the event shifted to a virtual format and through an out-of-state move, they continued to show up. Together, their team has raised more than $200,000. "I'm so thankful for the opportunity that the Tour de Fox has afforded me to contribute in such a personal way, as a cyclist and a person with Parkinson's," said Scott.
